For the avoidance of any doubts, the definitions as as follows:

A. Active Prop Account = A prop account that has received the first deposit and has engaged in any activity on TradeLocker. Activities defining an active account include, but are not limited to, logging in, opening a trade, editing a trade, closing a trade, maintaining a trade, charting, and using the API.
B. Active Prop Account Billing Start = Billing for each Active Prop Account begins on the day of the deposit, which typically coincides with the account's creation. This approach ensures that you are not charged for accounts that encountered an error and did not receive funds.
C. Billing Start = After you receive the production API key, you are officially live. The first day of billing will begin 90 days after you go live, or after you add 10 chargeable accounts—whichever comes first. There are no minimum fees for the first billing month.
